

The king needs a kingdom to be King...

It's that strong illusion of separation that makes one man to be the king when his kingdom is of one man (himself)... The king is his subordinates.

That's why we have: King of thieves, King of slaves.

You can see just how the subordinates matter a great deal to the king?
So unless I have got subordinates? I don't have a kingdom so how dare I claim to be king?

You see a lot of people saying they don't need people (illusion of separation), so how are we now claiming to be Kings?

And then again we are too quick to forget, Kings are made and not born.

I would always stand by, "Kings are made and not born..." No man is an Island. Let me express what I mean here.

One can only be born a prince and then get groomed by a Kingsman to become a king.

But the illusion of separation blinds this much common sense most often...

We think the prince don't need a Kingsman to be king.

And so all who want to be king, without going through anything that makes one worthy to be a king. And this is why there are not worthy kings in this age and Era...

So when we call ourselves: "king" let's be honest within ourselves. Do we have a kingdom?

Because the king is his subordinate. This leads to the story of the king of kings. Stay with me now....

Buried in the heart of Africa, is my very own birth country called Nigeria. It's funny how we should be the giants of Africa, yet the home to many rich slaves.

You want to ask how? Let me gist you a bit there. A country filled with milk and honey in its very own soil. Yet rich slaves. That's the ambition of many... As a number of rich slaves? Are far worth 1 billion in assets yet they are no different from those on the street with nothing. They have the same mind set as those on the street. Which is to: make money, flex with any woman they want, eat expensive.

Hold the status symbol. They don't want more than the average person on the street.

And to be honest? They care less, just like any other person on the street care less about any other thing apart from building a status symbol. Now to them rich slaves? They feel fulfilled in life.

Now you are going to say I am trying to promote POVERTY or something of that nature. No don't be too quick to judge. You see they're slaves to status symbol, not because they really want to show off? No, but it's the material status symbol that makes them feel good about themselves.

Without these they would feel worthless. Their worth? Is tied to asset like many others. That go through a lot just to feel worth. You see this is what makes them still slaves... Because they're yet to have money that feels just as number. Now I don't know if you can understand having money that feels like numbers... But it's a point where the status symbol? Becomes worthless to anyone. Where no matter what amount it is? It's all pointless.

This is usually where the power symbol becomes initialized... To many who understand this level of riches? You are getting there...

NOW it's funny because many really don't know what they're chasing. Status symbol is a low level of power symbol.

Blind to the fact that, they are in an economy that keeps declining. So they don't even know how poor they actually are in status to other economies that keeps increasing rapidly like the Dubai.

There's an illusion that being rich has nothing to do with your economy, this is why many would rather want others at the bottom? So they can feel at the top. If not they are on the same level with the rest.

But they fail to see in an economy where the poorest man? Owns a flying car? The richest man? Is the wealthiest king.

A long time ago the King? Who knows what it is to feel like the king? Would always make his own kingdom strong and enriched...

It was the times called the era of: The King of kings...

See how this worked out. The King of kings was that Man? Who had mastered how to make wealth from others making wealth... An era of love I call it. See here, because every single one got treated like a king by the king himself? So naturally? They all worshipped the king, not because the king demanded to be worshiped. But because the King made them feel the highest level of feeling good: which is pure love. And have you noticed it's only when you genuinely feel good that your sincere heart is in a state of gratitude. As someone who would make you thank God, is mainly because through them, you felt God. (remember: GOD = LOVE)

I remember this story of the "king of kings": in a reincarnation of mine I guess. I must have lived it. So yeah this should be more than a trillion years ago and more... (Explains why I often get called an old soul) Probably a Fatasol dynasty, a king so great? He owned all. And all owned Him.

I had to tell you about the story of the King of kings. So you can understand why the rich slaves?

All the goal of the rich slaves is to feel like a king. But a king of poor is only but the head of the poor, and a poor man himself...

We are quick to forget too soon, that when you hear the words (king of-). It's the last word that counts and not the start which is the word "king". See what I mean here:

King of kings,
King of men,
King of slaves,
King of dead men,
King of beggars,
King of things,
King of books,
King of dust,
King of shit,

Just see how the very word King? Is quite useless and empty when the ending words are nonsense.

Now be honest within yourself? Which one of these kings? Do you think? Is worthy?

And to many, when they hear enrich your circle? They only want to move around with people who have made more money than themselves. That this would make them in turn level up...

Funny right, like this much tells you just how ones economy is very important to define rich.

They still fail to feel like a king... and keep chasing.

Have you ever wondered why you can have all the money and not feel like a king? See the feeling of a king? Can't be conquered by money...

The feeling of being king is far more than just that. This is why there are no worthy kings today...

Because what exactly are they king of? You claim to be king in an economy of beggars and sick men?

Just what kind of king are you?

Like if you still can't see that the king is his very own subordinates? Then at this point?

I am loss of words for you.

Let's dive into something here, Just as:

A chef is the king of Cooks?

A CEO is the king of Executive OFFICERS...

But see without the executive officers? There cannot exist a CEO. Without the Cooks? THERE'S not a chef...

So you can imagine without the kings? There can't be a King of kings. So yeah, you often see a company of only one man? CALLING himself a CEO. When he has no officers or anything just a one man company... You would be quick to laugh at him, asking him? What makes you a CEO? When your team is only you.

But yet they are people feeling that they are Kings when it's only just them...

A king is the head of a collective few... How can a single person be king and have kingdom of one man?

Like the ego seems to blind this much common sense a lot... As it's only the ego that holds this strong illusion of separation...

Characteristic of the EGO:

- Separation
- Competition
- Chasing
- Blame
- Pride
- Jealousy
- Materialism
- Complaining
- Past/Future Oriented
- Self-Importance
- Hostility
- Greed

You see the Ego often kicks off common sense.

That many believe now a single person is king, who has a kingdom of one man (which is himself). Whose economy is of no importance?

As this is pretty much the same as the rich slaves of Nigeria... Their economy is enslaved, yet somehow to themselves? They are not their own economy... Silly thinking.

Forgetting so soon? That the king is his people. That's why he's people interest is the King's interest... And only why the man who has mastered how to gain success from others making success is a worthy KING.

The desire to feel KING is the quest of status symbol, and the underground hidden deep desire is for power symbol.

The next paragraphed is cropped from an amazing online novel: The scene of an old lady in jail, named Viola.

Viola suddenly felt like she was sitting on Wu Zetian's dragon chair. Looking around, all his civil and military officials kneeling. The strong sense of satisfaction made her excited, and she suddenly understood why these people in the prison liked to be the boss. It turns out that being the boss is really cool! This kind of pleasure in making others surrender to you and, it can make you more than one class higher than others in personality. This is not something you can experience with money. -from (the amazing SON-IN-LAW) by rango.

You can see from the above writer? Money can never be power?

Why? Because you can feel power even in the craziest places, you can't buy power... See power feels so good! Deep in your heart, you reading know this, sense it is true. But you see it's because Love is power...

But Love is the strongest, highest, and by far? The most powerful energy source in the whole universe. Nothing is above love... This is only why Love is the spirit of God... Because Love is GOD!

And don't forget Love is the highest level of feeling good.

But you see, going against others free will? Just to feel so good? Can never be compared with never going against another's free will...

When you test the real Love which is purity in nature? That would never go against another's free will? You would see that power? Pass Power indeed...

And there's a greater power that is so sweet. It transforms you... As in it in itself? Is creation.

Because it's a living energy.

See power when at its purest? Meaning never from anything negative? It is the most beautiful in all of existence... More beautiful than the whole universe... This power's nature is to give...

And the giving of this power? Is called creation. Literally the start of existence.

This itself? Is light... And this light is the foundation of: [the light system (T.L.S)]

Remember to remember God is Light.

And light shine through darkness and the darkness comprehended it not...

Can't you see! Knowledge is light and darkness is just inability to comprehend.

When you start seeing (understanding) how a person's understanding of you? Is only about their own inside? You start to see their darkness... Their own darkness is their inability to understand. Their own not wanting to understand?

EXPRESSES their own fear. And their own fear is an intentional expression of this same light... So why is the universe darkness? As anyone else wondered? It's all fear...

NOW imagine that endless darkness? Came to light... How the stars and Sun tries to bring light to this scared universe... EXPRESSING its fears by not understanding.

Because remember we can all understand knowledge is light... And darkness is lack of knowledge... So remember... The team work would be trying to brighten up the whole universe... With knowledge which is light...

Because just as knowledge spread? Light spreads.

So the main solution is to spread awareness knowledge throughout the universe... And this is why extraterrestrial beings keep coming back to earth... BECAUSE the center must have light.

For the light to stand? Earth must have knowledge... So they all along want to enlighten us all. But question also? About what exactly?

See, don't be so quick to forget what the main reason is....

It is to know what the real power? How sweet it is. What it is to be pure love. Which is the best kind of powerful energy source in the whole universe.
